PETER VERGIN GETS 2 MONTHS

RATES PAID BY U.S. FOR FODDER

ISSUE SILVER DOLLAR, CANADA

WINNIPEG—Peter Vergin, leader of Canadian Doughboys was sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate R.B. Graham when found guilty of assaulting Private Amos, an interpreter. Vergin was not given an option of a fine and his counsel have announced that the sentence will be appealed.

CALGARY—A large volume of Alberta low grade wheat may be shipped to the United States this winter following reduction in rail transportation rates for fodder.

Rates for feed for all purchases of fodder in Alberta will be as follows: Wheat straw, 50 cents; oat straw, 15¢; hay, an average of 18¢ per ton depending on grade; oat hay, 13.50¢; wheat hay, 14.00¢; alfalfa, 12.50¢.

To every ton of fodder $2.50 will be added for the costs of baling, hauling and loading.

"If we can sell our surplus straw and other kinds of fodder for fair and reasonable prices, and if the expectation of those who have to do with the sale of feed wheat and other low grades are realized, western Canada should be able to dispose of $5,000,000 bales of wheat to the U.S. Mr. Hoadley stated. "Going for feed for stock this will automatically remove it from our overcrop without interfering with human use."

OTTAWA—Canada's first silver dollar will be minted and circulated as a commemorative token of the 50th anniversary of King George's accession to the throne on May 6, 1837. It will be called the "George Dollar" and will bear a likeness of his majesty.

No official announcement has yet been made with respect to the new coin but it is known the design has been approved and an order for the dies sent to England, it being impossible to manufacture them here. The minting will be done in Ottawa.

For about 18 years there has been authority in the Currency act for the minting of a Canadian silver dollar, but none has ever been placed in circulation. The extent of its popularity will determine the amount of currency to be issued in this form but it is understood the first minting will run to at least 100,000.

GREAT YULE FEAST GIVEN BY KING RICHARD IN 1399

Christmas in England of course is an old feast day, though the Yule, Christmas and Christmas tree traditions come to us from another source. William E. Mead's "The English Medieval Feast" (Houlston, Milford) notes from Stow's "Survey of London" an account of the great feast which King Richard gave in Westminster hall in the year 1399, just after rebuilding the hall of William Rufus. "A most royal Christmas, with feasting and merriments at tilt, when there was every day spent 40 or 50 oxen, and 300 sheep, besides food without number, he caused a gown for himself to be made of gold, pearls, with pearls and precious stones, to the value of 3000 marks; he was guarded by Cheshire men and had about him commonly 50 bishops, besides barons, knights, suitors and others more than needed; inasmuch that the 1399 people were expected on the morning held every day to meet 15,000 people as reported on the manuscript told out from the kitchen to 355 servants."

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Without the door let sorrow lie! And if for cold it hap to die, We'll hurr 'n' in a Christmas pie! And ever more be merry.

Once the 16-cent piece, the new one will be shaker and, in the opinion of the experts who designed it, fully acceptable from the point of view of convenience of handling, as the smaller coin.

The "George Dollar" will be circulated during the silver jubilee proceedings in London.

ABOUT OLD SANTA CLAUS. CHILDREN'S PATRON SAINT

The children merely tell you that Santa Claus is a contraction of Saint Nicholas (see Nicholas, Saint). A turning of the pages reveals that Nicholas was Bishop of Myra or Smyrna in Asia Minor about 300 A.D. He was the patron saint of old Russia and was believed to offer special protection and comfort to "sea-faring men, thieves, virgins and children." His affection for children was based on his assertion that he brought food to these school boys who had been murdered. An evangelist attributed the name by which he is known in America to the early Dutch settlers who called him San Nicolaas.

But it little matters whether he be known as Saint Nicholas, Santa Claus, Kris Kringle, or a dozen other names, for the presence of his spirit on this climatic holiday of the year is the important thing. It enters every home in the four corners of Christendom and touches the hearts of all the men and women in whom there is a spark of the spirit of childhood, the freshness, the courage, and the eagerness of young life. Saint Nicholas may seem odd, but he has none of the fears, regrets or prejudices of age. He and his children stand on the threshold of the world. Their banner is good will.

WORDS "Carbon District" in by-laws of this Association.

- (7) Order of Business at Meetings:
  - (a) Reading Minutes.
  - (b) Reports of Committees.
  - (c) Accounts.
  - (d) Communications.
  - (e) Unfinished Business.
  - (f) New Business.
- (8) Rules of Order at Meetings:
  - (a) No motion shall be open for discussion until stated by the presiding officer to the meeting. All motions shall be decided by a majority of votes unless otherwise provided. The votes of the members, except when otherwise provided, shall be given by holding up the right hand, and shall be counted by the presiding officer, unless the numbers shall be so unequal as to render counting unnecessary.
  - (b) Each member when speaking shall address themselves to the presiding officer. No person shall speak more than twice on the same question unless in explanation, or the mover in reply.
  - (c) On a point of order being raised while a member is speaking, or when called to order by the presiding officer, he or she shall at once take their seat, when the point of order shall be stated by the person objecting; the presiding officer shall decide thereon without debate, after which the member may proceed.
  - (d) No amendment to a motion shall be in order after its announcement, or an amendment. A direct negative to a motion cannot be considered as an amendment.
  - (e) All notices of motion shall be in writing, and the Secretary may

So this day, dedicated to the memory of the birth of a child, let us all children. It is their carols, their laughter, their happiness which makes it sweet. And we older folk should on this day at least share their kindness, their tolerance, their purity and their Saint Nicholas.

THE CHRISTMAS CAROLERS ARE WELCOME EVERYWHERE

"Here comes the Carolers." So it used to be. Young Jesus, going against the windmills, striding against the cheerful carols outside. Perhaps it was the story of the Christ child put to tune or a ballad of love and cheer. When the shivers came the householder invited them in for a bite and a sup or gave them a coin or two for their song. Then on the next house to sing again under the stars or velvet below lifted snow.

And, then, in the early morning, here again to their own residents. It was a good old custom, this mid-night minstrelsy in the season of peace and goodwill. "With the beginning of Yuletide, twelve days before Christmas day," as Prentiss Chamberlain tells in the standard "small bands of musicians went the rounds and, in the mire or on the road or on the steps played the old folk songs as a lyrical prelude to the great day. To some of the antique ballad airs, like "Good Men and True," the carolers would require any motion to be made—by writing.

(9) No bylaw shall be amended or repealed unless notice of motion shall have been given at the previous meeting, and shall require a two-thirds majority of those present.

McLEAN AND PALMER SPEAK ON SOCIAL CREDIT PRINCIPLES

Speaking before a large audience in the Farmers' Exchange Hall Carbon last Wednesday night, under the auspices of the Douglas Social Credit Secretariat, London, W.O. McLean and C. G. Palmer, members of the Calgary New Age Club, gave their views on Social Credit based on the facts of Major Douglas. While they stated they were in sympathy with Wm. A. Hart's plan for Alberta, they were not advocating any particular plan, but were only working as an educational unit and not in support of any party.

Unemployment was not solvable, according to the speakers, but the problem of making unemployment a "social credit" was the one to attack and they believed that including the Douglas System of Economics that this could be accomplished.

A. B. Claypool, M.L.A. acted as the chairman and conducted the question period in an able manner.

SHAW WILL CARRY LIBERAL BANNER IN EAST CALGARY

With echoes of his tremendous personal oration at the Calgary West convention but a week previous still ringing, Captain Joseph T. Shaw, a former Liberal M.L.A. and M.P., was chosen Saturday afternoon to carry the Liberal colors in the Federal constituency of Calgary East in the next Dominion election.

King Wenceslaus," says Mr. Chubb, the singer would add a hymn tune or two—"Once in Royal David's City" or "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing." Punctuating the blarney of domestic preparation for the coming feast these ministrations in the still night gave a breath of poetry that touched the spirit of Christmas with an enduring beauty. Day by day the tide of joyous anticipation rose until the crescendo broke into a force of exuberance.

Those simple days of the folk are gone, says Mr. Chubb; the story is repeated.

But the custom of making the rounds on Christmas eve to sing the carols of peace and good will on earth still prevails here and there—Literary Digest.

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE R. RODNEY Author of "The Colorado Trail,"
"The Canyon Trail," Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen just a half-hour in plenty of trouble," the lawless told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur Kneep has been summarily looking the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drifter himself from riding."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—and as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward westward outfit.

Duro Keene, downed and luckless prospector, still was returning to tell Dustin and Syke Goldfarb, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, what he had gathered from his discovery of a rich gold mine, and how he had secured the ore. He sees Broken Spur man snuffing Hour-Glass cattle and protests against it.

Syke Goldfarb and Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector may tell others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then kill him.

Gerald Keene, dressed in ridiculous cowboy costume, arrived at the Hour-Glass ranch and is hired as a cowboy by Joe Carr. The impersonation of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted as such by the other occupants of the bunkhouse.

Proof of Dustin's cattle stealing activities was accidentally discovered by Stone, who accompanied by Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-Glass ranch house.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along and seizes them, stone and Edith. Edith mentions the Broken Spur brandings and Edith refuses to marry him, with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insists Stone should simply throw him into a pool of water.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER VI.—Continued

"I'll learned that from a catalogue then I'm a Grouser," he muttered and he laid in wait for Stone when supper was done.

"What's the game?" he asked curiously. "There was a grin, too, that kept the words from Stone when supper was done."

Now Red Thum had almost been born in a saddle. He had punched cattle from El Gran Chaco to the barren ground and he was not to be put off.

"I seen you fall," he said grimly. "A green man can't fall like that. It takes practice. A new man falls first. You relaxed every muscle and that's why you don't break every bone in your body. Come clean, now I'll not give you away learn I have to. Where'd you from?"

"That is a dangerous question to ask at times but Stone did not resent it."

"I got to spread my own rope my own way," he said and the honey little made Red Thum open his eyes.

"You must mind a man attend to his own business, do you?"

"Huh. I reckon not. But you see a few of us have spent a long time here on the Hour-Glass. You claim to be a new man here. Let it go at that. Get me . . ."

a bequest like the Hour-glass as it stands to-day would sure chuck for a China egg. . . . Wait a bit! Let's work this out by simple Rule of Three. If old man Carr had ample cattle and didn't sell 'em or trade 'em, and if they didn't lay down and die on him, then it's a moral certainty that somebody else has got to be gettin' 'em. . . . He remembered that cow down by Soda Springs.

"Looks funny Edith didn't tell her father about that cow. Old Carr must be scared of Dustin at the Broken Spur. That looks like. When I'm 'round to sit in the game I've got to draw cards. And I've got to sit in the game for my own sake. . . . Even to himself he did not yet admit that Edith was a governing cause in the game." "It looks to me like somebody's not to call this man Dustin an' see what he holds."

He swung out of saddle and let his reins trail. The horse, on his honor by those trailing reins, pawed once or twice at an ant hill and stood with drooping head while Stone settled himself for a study of valley notes.

Miles away he could see the line of trees to the east that marked the land where the Hour-glass men were working in a vain hope to find enough cattle to be worth while. Soda Springs was the hub of the wheel of life on the Hour-glass, and Soda Springs was in debate.

"Dustin can't ruin the cattle here," Dustin said to himself. "He can't change the brands he's got. He must be doing it in force. . . . Kneep's regular gang out in the hills works stages on a job. Changing brands as fast as cows can calve. God, but I'd like to find out. . . . I just naturally got to. . . . Dustin's shipwrecked in Mexico and then drive back. It'd cost him too much to square the inspectors at the border. He may be shipping small bunches into California or just drive 'in' of the County. . . . The brands and takers a chance on doing the best they can. It's a cinch, though he must be doing a department store trade."

He fell into deep thought.

"Why? Why would a man do this? Not for mere money. There wasn't enough money in a few cattle to make a man risk years in jail. Dustin was in it . . . and Stone knew he was . . . then he had some other motive. Edith? There was the answer, and Stone felt such a surge of wrath sweep over him at the thought that he felt hot all over. He suddenly visualized Edith—red-lipped, red-headed, gray-eyed, and he knew that any man would take a chance for her. But . . . how could any chance overstep that hatred that he had read in her eyes for Dustin?

In these days men could not compel women to marry them. "Hold on," Joe Carr was old. He was more or less inert, the result of age and drink, and his daughter loved him dearly. Could this be a scheme on the part of Dustin to win by craft what he could never get otherwise?

"I believe I've struck it. He fits hook himself into life. His big horse, pawing at the ant hill, which is a dozen miles away from his leg and bit like fire. Then he raised his great head. Stone's eyes followed the horse's stare. He suddenly stood like a man petrified!

Far below him, six hundred yards away among the brush, he saw a half-grown calf doling among the mesquite clumps and behind him rode, with yells and shouting, two men on horses that had been harnessed.

"By God! That's pretty bare-faced. They're so sure all the Hour-glass men are on the east side of the range that they aren't even stickin' to the high brush. Anybody in sight could see the Hour-glass? I must be gettin' blind."

A thin column of white smoke oozed up into the air from behind a distant ridge. Suddenly an edging of black smoke showed along the white column.

"Greasewood fire. . . . That's to give quick heat to the iron. God, but they're careless! Is that a wagon too I see? . . . Can't be. . . . But it was! A dirty, blatted canvas mauler's shop of small wagon that lurched across the divide. A negro, perched in front, drove it slowly down into the flat and squatted by the 'huh'.

"Huh! Leaves his fires burnin' behind him and follows his men where they go. Just pickin' up cows where ever they find 'em. Looks to me like a pretty widespread scheme. All based on the fact that the Hour-glass hasn't got enough men to watch its own ranges. That's bad. . . . But that's worse! Chagin' brands on Hour-glass calves on Hour-glass land. . . ."

Business Is Profitable

Drugs And Jewels Smuggled Into England By Air

Smuggling of drugs, Paris fashions and jewels into Britain by air has grown to an astonishing scale. British tariffs on silk, expensive dresses, jewelry and drugs make this illicit traffic a highly profitable business.

Thousands of pounds of these articles can be loaded on a single plane.

The traffic in drugs, always difficult to detect, is known to be growing at an even greater rate. Opium, cocaine, heroin and other narcotics are being peddled in the West End and other cities in quantities far in excess of those shown by the import certificates.

An official at Croydon aerodrome expressed the opinion that this smuggling must be carried out on a very large scale if it is made to pay. "Most of the large aerodromes are too well watched to make the risk worth while," he said.

This forces the smuggler to choose some isolated spot off the usual air routes.

"Only the cleverest organization and the close co-operation of police accomplices with high-powered cars could make such a task practicable."

Little Helps For This Week

"Whom having not seen ye love, in whom though now ye see Him not, ye rejoice with joy unpeakable and full of glory." 1 Peter 1:8.

If ye love me keep my commandments. John 14:15.

Blest be Thy love dear Lord. That taught me this sweet way. Only to love Thee for Thyself, And not for love of Thyself.

To love God is to love His character. God is Purity, and to be pure in thought and look, to turn away from unbalanced looks and conversation, to have the moments in which we have not been pure, is to love God. God is Love, and to love men until it has expanded into a philanthropy which embraces all, even enemies with compassion, that is to love God. God is Truth, and to be true, to hate every form of falsehood, to live a brave, true, real life, that is to love God. God is Indefinite, and to love the boundless, reaching on from grace to grace, adding faith to charity, aiming incessantly to perfect, even to the Father is perfect, that is to love God.—F. W. Robertson.

Regina, and will be away a couple of days on his business.

Mr. and Mrs. H.R. Davidson spent the week end in Calgary.

The Carbon school concert and Christmas tree will be held in the Carbon Exchange hall on Friday night December 21, at 8 o'clock. The concert program will again be presented on Saturday night, although there will not be a Santa Claus on this last occasion. Admission to concert, will be 25c for adults.

Misses Ellen Trumbler and Winnie Poxon were visitors to Calgary on Monday.

Leo Trepanier and Aris Turcott motored to Toronto on Sunday.

Art Hudson won the turkey in the drawing at the Webb School Christmas concert on Monday night. The winning ticket was number 12.

A number of stores in town will be closed in town on December 26th, to observe Boxing Day. It is expected that the other business places will follow suit, and prospective buyers would be advised to wait until Thursday to come to town in search of goods.

Geo. Ives went into Calgary on Monday of this week.

The Farmers Exchange will distribute a free treat to children on the afternoon of Thursday, December 27.
It has been rumoured that Shary Shova will put on a free matinee on this occasion, although we have no definite word of this arrangement.

Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Wilson and family were visitors to the city on Saturday.

Curling started in Carbon last night with both sheets of ice being in good shape for the first of the season. The clubs have not all been filled, but it is expected that ten complete rinks will be entered in the season's play.

The skating ice is rapidly nearing completion also, and skating is to commence this week.

Mr. Tom Hall has discovered something that agriculturists have said is impossible. On a 160-acre field of wheat will not volunteers come up just summer, and recently three heads of wheat were found that had one kernel of wild oat growing in each head. It has always been claimed that wheat and wild oats will not cross but it has been proven that they will. It has been offered for one of the heads.

Rationing of bread to the people of the U.S.S.R. will cease with the passing of the current year. Beginning January 1st, 1935, 40 million people in the urban centres of the Soviet Union will buy their bread without ration cards. Prices will be regulated by the government to prevent profligence. More than ten thousand new shops will be opened in cities throughout the country to handle the business.
Wages will be increased ten per cent to meet the increased living costs of the workers.

GIMBEL—LUFT

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Luft on Tuesday, December 18th, by the Rev.
Wm. McNeil, M. A., when Miss Florence Luft and Mr. Heinrich Gim-bel were united in marriage.
Mr. and Mrs. Gimbel will make their home in Carbon.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS

Happy, happy Christmas that can win us back to the delusions of our childish days; that can recall to the old man the pleasures of his youth;
and transport the sailor and the traveler thousands of miles away, back to his own fireside and his quiet home.
—Charles Dickens

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the new-born King!"
Peace on earth, and merrily millions: God and sinners reconciled.
—Charles Wesley

THE JOY OF GIVING

For someone, not only for Christmas
But for all the long year through
The joy that you give to others
Is the joy that comes back to you!
And the more you spend in blessing
The poorer and the lonelier and sad
And them of your heart's possessing Returns to make you glad.
—WHITTIER

NOBILITY

This Christmas Day let's lay away
The burdens of the year.
With gladness about let's go about
A-spreading of good cheer.

On other days list to the lays Of slavers, if ye will,
This is a time to make a rhyme
Of joy the world to fill.

Forget the fears of yesterdays,
Forget all thought of doubt,
Ye who did stray from joy away,
Now turn ye face about.

This Christmas Day let's lay away
The burdens of the year.
With gladness about let's go about
A-spreading of good cheer. —Anon.

To Our Many Customers and Friends we Extend Best Wishes for a
Merry Christmas
